

Prepared Remarks for Introduction of U.S. Sen. Jeff Sessions

United States Senator Jeff Sessions has represented the people of Alabama in Washington for more than 13 years.

Sen. Sessions is known, both in the Senate and throughout Alabama, as a strong advocate for the rule-of-law, and as an unwavering supporter of America's men and women in uniform. He believes in a limited, fiscally responsible government that allows decent Americans to fulfill their highest dreams.

In the Senate, Sen. Sessions is the Ranking Member of the prestigious Senate Judiciary Committee, which traces its roots back to the first days of Congress in 1789.

In that role, Sen. Sessions is a leader of efforts to keep America safe from the threat of terrorism, restore lawfulness to America's immigration system, and confirm judges that will call balls and strikes fairly based on the law.

Sen. Sessions is also a senior member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which oversees our nation's military, the Budget Committee, and the Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

Sen. Sessions knows the state of Alabama well. He grew up in the rural community of Hybart (HIB-ert) and attended high school in Camden. He worked his way through Huntingdon College in Montgomery, and then received a law degree from the University of Alabama in 1973.

Sen. Sessions spent several years practicing law before beginning a long career in public service. In 1981, Sen. Sessions was nominated by President Reagan to serve as a United States Attorney—a position he held for 12 years. Sessions was elected as Alabama's Attorney General in 1994, and was first elected to the Senate in 1996.

Along the way he has benefited from the steadfast support of his wonderful wife, Mary. Together they have three married children, two granddaughters, a grandson, and one-more on the way!

We are proud to have him representing us in the Senate, and we are pleased that he can be with us here today.

Please join me in welcoming Senator Sessions.
